It is required that the studies are original and have not been published elsewhere before. If conference and symposium papers were published in a booklet, in this case they shall be published by JEMS on the condition that the copyright has not been transferred to the first publishing place. Information must be given to the journal editorship about the place where these kinds of papers were published before.

Reference management software

The reference template of most journals is found in many of the most popular reference management software products. The products provide support Citation Style Language styles, such as Mendeley, Zotero using citation plug-ins from these products. Authors should only select the appropriate journal template while preparing their articles; then citations and bibliography are automatically formatted in the style of the journal. If a template is not yet available for this journal, authors can follow the format of the sample references and citations shown in this Guide. If the reference management software is used, authors should ensure that they remove all field codes before submitting the manuscript.

Users of Mendeley Desktop can easily install the reference style for this journal by clicking the following link:

<https://open.mendeley.com/use-citation-style/journal-of-eta-maritime-science>

Users of Zotero can also easily install the reference style by using the following link:

<http://www.zotero.org/styles/journal-of-eta-maritime-science>

When preparing your manuscript, you will then be able to select this style using the Mendeley plug-ins for Microsoft Word or LibreOffice.

Reference style

In-text Citing please refer to the source with a number in a square bracket, e.g. [1].

When citing multiple sources at once, please list each number separately, in its own brackets, e.g. [1], [2], [7] or [1] - [5].

In the reference list, all references should be numerically in the order. The below examples are from the Journal of ETA Maritime Science Citation Reference Guide.
